Water quality standards are essential guidelines that ensure the safety and purity of water for human consumption, aquatic life, and industrial use. The add-on course on Water Quality Standards was conducted from 16-11-2024 onwards which provided an understanding of these standards and their importance. The course was aimed at undergraduate students in chemistry. The students analysed the water quality of college drinking water as part of the course. By providing an in-depth understanding of water quality parameters, regulations, and monitoring techniques, the course equipped the participants with the knowledge needed to address water quality challenges.
