Biotechnology Department – A Hub of Innovation and Excellence

The Biotechnology Department at our college stands out as a center of academic excellence, cutting-edge research, and student-focused learning. The faculty members are not only highly qualified but also deeply committed to mentoring and inspiring students. The department offers a perfect blend of theoretical knowledge and hands-on training through well-equipped laboratories, industrial visits, and research projects.

Students are encouraged to explore, innovate, and participate in various national and international events, which enhances their academic growth. The teachers are super supportive and always ready to help, whether it's with classes, projects, or just some good advice. The labs are well-equipped, and we get a lot of hands-on experience, which makes learning so much more interesting.

There are plenty of opportunities to take part in workshops, seminars, and even research work, which really helps build confidence and skills.
