

S DHARANIPRIYA

U03MS22S0069

Greetings, I am S.Dharanipriya, a final year student pursuing my bachelor's degree in Biotechnology and Genetics at The Oxford College of Science. Both the department is equipped with all necessary instruments and provides us the best laboratory experience and knowledge. The true gem of the departments are the faculty members, with their keen passion towards interactive teaching and unwavering support making the academic life of students easy and valuable. The teachers are very supportive towards our academic as well as personal growth. The balance between the academic life and the extra-curricular activity this college provides, makes one understand their true potential. My college life in Oxford College will be a golden memory, as I move forward, I will carry not only academic knowledge but all also the valuable lessons from my faculty member.